TRAGIC END TO SEARCH FOR MISSING PENSIONER

THE body found in an area of woodland off Abercrombie Way is that of missing Harlow pensioner Peter Schofield.

Although police are still waiting the results of forensic tests before they can formally identify the remains, the body has now been released to Mr Schofield's family.

The 70-year-old, of Brockles Mead, was last seen by a friend outside a betting shop in the town centre in May of last year. He was said to have been carrying food and a sleeping bag on the day he disappeared.

Police were called to the woodland shortly before 6pm last Tuesday. The Star understands that two young boys playing football near the area came across the body in dense undergrowth.

Dad loved life and didn't want to grow old

THE family of pensioner Peter Schofield, whose body was found last week in Harlow woodland, have paid a moving tribute to a man "who didn't want to grow old".

Speaking on behalf of the family, Mr Schofield's daughter Jane Mansfield said they received the tragic news with mixed emotions.

"When the police came and knocked on my door on Tuesday night I just knew what they were going to say," she told the Star. "It was a bit of a relief to be honest.

"But as the news really sunk in we all just broke down. The whole family is devastated.

"To know that he was so close the whole time, that is what really threw us all. But we know that the police searched and we all searched; it is just one of those things and we are grateful that we are finally able to put closure to the situation."

Jane said the family are convinced Peter, who was also known by the nickname 'Peter Pan', intended to take his own life.

"Dad never wanted to grow old and after watching all the latest stuff in the news about the old people's homes I just know that he wouldn't have wanted that.

"He had made his peace with everyone before that day and chose a nice spot overlooking a stream that was in between all of his family's homes.

"I can understand why he went

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

where he did, but obviously I don't think he realised it would take 13 months to find him.

"Dad was a popular character who loved life. He'd always say to me you only get to live once so enjoy it while you can.

"We are glad that he can finally rest in peace."

She added: "We would like to thank the police and the media for their continued support, and to all the officers that helped to look for my dad.

"We would also like to say a massive thank you for to the Missing People charity for all their efforts and background work. We couldn't have hoped for more support."

The funeral of Mr Schofield – a father of five and grandfather to four – will take place on Monday (July 11) and the family have requested that mourners do not wear black.

"My dad's funeral will be a sad occasion for family and many, many friends, but he believed in enjoying life and we request no black attire.

"Dad would want everybody to celebrate his life and we are sure that his passing will be celebrated with a big party atmosphere on the day."

Party time for Pets' Corner stalwart Joy

MANY HAPPY RETURNS: Joy Burles with Pets' Corner supervisor Justin Hopwood and Boo-Boo the pony

SHE has groomed, cleaned and tended the horses at Pets' Corner for 35 years so what better place for Joy Burles to celebrate her 80th birthday than the popular children's attraction in Harlow Town Park?

Joy, a former seamstress and dressmaker, is thought to be one of Harlow's longest serving volunteers with nearly four decades of service under her belt.

Since 1976 she has mucked out, prepared animal feeds, made hay nets, tended hanging baskets and looked after tubs of flowers in all weathers.

And celebrating her 80th birthday with a party last week, staff at Pets' Corner made sure an extra special four-legged guest was there – Boo-Boo the pony.

Joy has helped to look after Boo Boo for the past 17 years, with her devotion extending to taking pictures of the pony into the operating theatre with her during two hip operations.

"Looking after Boo has helped me pull through hip operations and volunteering gives me lots of opportunities and interests," she said.

"I feel I've got a really special connection with Pets' Corner. I come down here once a week, sometimes twice a week if my health allows."

Crash driver to be sentenced next month

A DRIVER arrested after a van smashed into a house at Harlow Common earlier this year has pleaded guilty to a string of motoring offences.

Matthew Diment (26), of London Road, Harlow, was told he must wait until next month to learn his fate after magistrates committed him to Chelmsford Crown Court for sentencing on August 4.

Diment pleaded guilty to charges of aggravated vehicle taking, drink driving, driving without a licence or insurance and failing to stop for police when he appeared in court in

FLASHBACK: Star, January 27

Harlow last week.

After hearing that his actions had caused injury to a passenger and damaged private property, the magistrates decided their powers of sentencing were insufficient and sent him to the higher court for sentencing.

He was also given an interim driving ban.

The court was told the crash happened in the early hours of January 25 after Diment, who was driving a white Mercedes Vito van, failed to stop for police in Potter Street.

He then lost control of the vehicle which somersaulted before hitting a house in Harlow Common Road and crashing into the property owner's car.

Diment was released on unconditional bail until his appearance at the crown court.

Giving people the chance to shape the things they value

SIR, Your front page headline 'Up for grabs!' (Star, June 30) may have given some readers a rather skewed view of what Harlow Council is trying to do in respect of some of its services.

We are inviting the voluntary and business community to join in partnership with the council to run seven discretionary services including The Playhouse, Pets' Corner and the paddling pools. Nobody is talking about closure; my focus as lead councillor for these services is to find innovative ways to keep them running by working with the community.

The problem is that Harlow is facing an important crossroads in the way we run community services. To stand still and continue as we are is not an option, given the scale of the financial challenge we face. That is why I will be embarking on an exciting and positive change to the way council community services are run.

This is change for the better and we will invite existing local community providers to help shape the evolution of our favourite services. The voluntary and businesses sector already know how to run services efficiently and, crucially, may be able to tap sources of funding that a local authority cannot.

It is disappointing, if not dreadfully predictable, that opposition members have called this a "fire sale" and claim the administration is "selling off" Harlow. They have nothing to offer but alarmist soundbites and are prepared to run these services onto the rocks without making any serious provision for their future.

The reality is the council is being responsible by making an early start in consulting with experienced voluntary, public and business managers on how we can find the best solution for Harlow. This plan is not about privatisation – it is not inviting a 'do what you like approach' to community facilities. Standards of provision will have to be maintained. We will also be unveiling a community fund for financial support for those groups who want to help run services.

Giving people the ability to shape what they value most is a new and innovative idea, but Harlow has always led the way in working better and smarter.

I have lived in Harlow since I was born 25 years ago. I enjoyed attending the paddling pools and spending time at Pets' Corner when I was younger. Cherished memories like mine should be continued to be shared by the next generations of young people in our town; that's why the council will be launching this initiative.

Ultimately, the plan will help provide better and more innovative community services. The partnership agenda goes to the heart of what Harlow Council wants to achieve – sustainable community services for future generations to enjoy.

Joel Charles, Cabinet member for community & citizenship
Civic Centre, Harlow

Proof that a radical approach will work

SIR, We are three organisations in the area that now either run or manage services previously managed by Harlow Council. In each case we have shown that this approach where volunteers and the local authority work together does work.

BATTS now manages a community leisure centre offering a range of services, while Young Concern is praised for the work it does in providing counselling to young people in the area.

Both have taken over buildings from Harlow Council in which to perform their highly valued role.

In the case of Shopmobility, it has gone from a temporary cabin to its own premises and is a well-run and invaluable resource for people with mobility problems in our town. Once a direct arm of Harlow Council, it is now a successful example of an arms-length organisation that has opened up fresh sources of funding from Lottery and Community Initiatives Fund grants.

The key point is that community and voluntary organisations can and have successfully taken council-run services and resources in Harlow. This is an approach in which our town already has experience; it is not a brief and untested fad.

Harlow Council is not alone among local authorities in looking for new providers for its services. The steady reduction in council funding means we will see more and more of these transfers across the country.

The reality is that Harlow cannot reverse its funding situation and the council has gone past the point of salami-slicing chunks of money to save services. We need a radical approach.

Now is the moment to work together as a community – across the voluntary, community and business sectors – to keep our discretionary services going. Harlow Council's approach in holding the July 22 conference is a platform for us to have that conversation.

Alan Rowe, Shopmobility
Robert Locke, Young Concern Trust
Niel Brierley, BATTS table tennis & leisure centre

Sell-off is the thin end of the wedge

SIR, So Harlow's Tory council is to avoid the obloquy heaped on Wandsworth when they started charging kids to use the playgrounds in public parks by simply selling all the leisure facilities off.

As a sop to the 'Big Society', charities and voluntary organisations will be invited to bid in the sure and certain hope that they will be too strapped for cash to bid.

Once the new operators settle in, we can forget any commitments made as part of the contractual obligations. The council and their bidders will soon let these unprofitable conditions slip away as unsustainable and these assets will then be stripped.

Look forward to the museum moving to hired office space in the Civic Centre while its historic premises become luxury apartments. Look forward to The Playhouse Shopping Village and the Gibberd Golf Links. A tired retreat of the Thatcher and Major years, in fact.

Meanwhile, Robert Halfon is now endorsing Harlow's bid to become an Enterprise Zone. A good thing, if the track record of these developments wasn't extremely dodgy.

Having worked for many years in the neighbourhood of the Isle of Dogs – partly as a careers adviser – I am well aware that these zones rarely bring job opportunities for local people and it is highly disingenuous to suggest they do. Further, the infrastructure for many of these developments is an afterthought and the burden for that falls not on the developers but on the local taxpayers.

The very people who bleat about there being no infrastructure to support new housing to the north are content to set up this zone on the same conditions!

What localism means is the Government encourages big projects and dumps the costs (and the blame) on local people.

Nick Gunning
Halling Hill, Harlow

Tories can find cash when it suits them

SIR, It has been announced that major services for the Harlow public are under threat, again, from our Tory-run council.

Yet Harlow is quite prepared to spend £600,000 on consultants and agency staff and a nearly £500,000 on the salaries of the top half dozen most senior bureaucrats.

Another factor is the top Tory making the savage cuts in public expenditure is Eric Pickles. While making Draconian cuts to essential services like care for the elderly, he has his own spending policies.

Official figures from his own department show £277,690 of taxpayers' cash spent on chauffeur driven limos in just 10 months. Yet another £150,000 has been spent on meals, wine and sandwiches.

We keep hearing the mantra "no money" but the Conservatives can soon find the cash when it suits them.

Michael Danvers
Tunmeade, Harlow

In Brief

SIR, Before C.Lewis complains about the taking down and erecting of goalposts they should first check their facts (Letters, June 23).

Each football team that plays on a council-owned pitch has to pay the council £800 through the local football league. That's £1,600 per pitch, so the cost of removing the goalposts and putting them back up again is covered.

If the goals were not removed the pitches would not be playable in the new season, meaning around 3,000 adults and children would not be able to play football.

R.H. Mays
Hollyfield, Harlow

SIR, In reply to comments made about the new 'hamburger' roundabout on the A414 at Southern Way (Letters, June 30), I would just like to say that it is the best thing since sliced bread.

The problem is not the roundabout but the motorists who use it.

The signs are quite clear enough, but when you have a sign depicting 'no right turn' and then some imbecile turns right, it is not the fault of the roundabout.

When there is an amber light showing and an idiot cares to drive on, it is not the fault of the roundabout.

All that can be done is for the motorist to take extra care and keep an eye out for the idiots who shouldn't even be driving.

R.D. Lucia
Coppice Hatch, Harlow

SIR, Angry shoppers protesting about the closure of Starbucks have a short memory (Star, June 30). Before Starbucks existed Sainsbury's had its own cafe and many of us were very unhappy when it closed.

Of course the Starbucks staff are very pleasant, and hopefully they will be re-employed by Sainsbury's, but people need to take a step back.

In the former Sainsbury's cafe you could buy reasonably-priced healthy meals, whereas a Starbucks muffin is around 500 calories. They stock a few items that could fall under the category of 'healthy' – their wraps and yoghurts, for example – but in the main their produce, including the frothy coffees, are stuffed full of calories.

Bring on the Sainsbury's cafe. I for one will be fraternising it.

Carl Constant
Long Ley, Harlow

SIR, It was interesting to read your report about the closure of the Harlow Scene because it shows that a mere change of name cannot save any publication.

Readers want local news and local adverts, not useless shared articles. Readers also enjoy reading different views on local life reflected on the letters page.

Most people also want any local paper which is delivered free to be family-friendly and not contain any smutty advertisements. On this point I would like to congratulate the Star for its obvious policy of decency over profit.

The Star remains high on many people's reading each Thursday.

Cheat handed suspended sentence...and driving ban

A BENEFITS cheat who claimed almost £40,000 to which he was not entitled has been spared a jail sentence because of his poor health.

Instead, Ian McLernon (53), of North Grove, Harlow, was given a six-month suspended sentence when he appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday after pleading guilty to failing to notify the authorities of a change of circumstances.

The court heard McLernon committed two offences relating to income support and one of housing and council tax after failing to declare his wife had gone back to work.

Prosecutor Nasra Butt said the offences were committed between February 2006 and October 2009 and the total amount of money involved was £39,453.65.

Robert James, representing McLernon, said there was a dispute about how much his client had repaid and also referred to his client's "poor health".

Passing sentence, judge Anthony

Goldstaub told him: "In view of your poor health there are other means than prison to punish you. Prison would be another expense on the public purse so instead you'll be disqualified from driving for six months."

The judge also ordered McLernon to attend intensive community sentence scheme The Bridge Project for 30 days.

Ex-Hawks chairman starts radio station

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

A NEW community radio station will give budding DJs the chance to hone their skills when it goes live in Harlow later this month.

Hawks Radio, a not-for-profit station, has been set up with help of a £9,488 grant from the Big Lottery Fund and will operate out of a specially-built studio at Harlow Town FC's stadium in Roydon Road.

It will broadcast chat, phone-ins, music and news and sport bulletins via the internet, with presenters hosting live shows between 8am and 6pm daily.

The man behind the station – former Harlow Town FC chairman Steve Ray – told the Star: "Harlow is a great place to live and grow up but sadly many people do not understand this and fail to embrace the skills and people we have."

"With Hawks Radio we want to attempt to bridge a gap and support our future to include the youth of today and all those community groups who work tirelessly to help everyone."

He hopes to involve Harlow Council, voluntary groups, Harlow College and local schools in the day-to-day running of the station with an ultimate aim of creating several paid positions.

"We're a community radio station, and at the heart of our vision is the desire to provide local people with the chance to develop new broadcasting skills and give local charities, schools and community groups the opportunity to promote their work," he said.

"If it takes off – and I am confident that it will – we can hopefully even look at creating several jobs for the long-term unemployed."

Streaming of pre-recorded content will start this week with the search for presenters ongoing over the next few months. For more information visit www.hawksradio.co.uk.

Sixty years married and still laughing!

DESPITE travelling all over the world with the Army, it wasn't until Bill Locke stepped into a dance hall in Chingford over 60 years ago that he spotted the woman he knew was his wife-to-be.

Today (Thursday) the couple are celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary.

Bill (85) and his "his girl", Peggy (83), were married in her home town of Edmonton on July 7, 1951 less than a year after they first met.

The couple, who live in The Crescent, Harlow, moved to the town in 1954. They have two sons – Bill and Bob – and two granddaughters.

"We have been very happy together and there is always a lot of laughter in our life," said Peggy.

"I think the secret is always supporting and taking care of each other. It also helps that we have the exact same sense of humour."

"We never argue," added Bill. "She tells me what to do and I do it!"

The couple celebrated their anniversary with a big party last weekend and are treating their entire family to a trip to The Savoy on Sunday.

Cost of fuel 'a real threat' to frontline services warns MP

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has called for an urgent Parliamentary debate on the impact of rising petrol prices.

Speaking in the House of Commons on Friday, he said millions of pounds was being spent by police forces on fuel which could be better spent on policing.

Mr Halfon, who has worked closely with pressure group FairFuelUK on a campaign to drive down pump prices in the UK, told the Star: "Last year the police spent £78million on motoring fuel and it could hit £90m this year."

"The Royal College of Nursing says that 60,000 nurses now subsidise NHS petrol bills out of their own pockets. It's clear that high petrol prices are becoming a real threat to frontline services."

Two days earlier, Mr Halfon raised the issue with David Cameron during Prime Minister's Questions and said he had been "encouraged" by the response.

"I asked him to join me in supporting the FairFuelUK Campaign, asking oil companies to pass on lower petrol costs to motorists," he said.

"He agreed that we need to make sure we have a good competitive sector that passes on price cuts right through the country. His reply was certainly encouraging."

We were there to welcome the Royals to town

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THERE has been a right royal response since we asked readers if they remembered the visit of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh to Harlow in 1957.

Mrs Towns, of Little Brays, was the first to write in to share her memories.

"We'd just moved to Harlow a couple of months before," she said. "I, my husband Jim and our two babies – Jeanne and Kerry in their pram – stood opposite the Manor Hatch Shops. We were the only ones there so were so pleased that as they drove they gave us a wave!"

Vivienne Wachenje, of Hornbeams, remembers that it wasn't just the Royal visitors who received a special reception.

"I was at the Spinnly School and it may be that we were given the day off for the occasion but we all lined a route at The Stow," she explained. "It became quite amusing as every cyclist who went through The Stow, which had a road then, got cheered. 'The Queen and Prince Philip eventually appeared on the balcony at Moot House and then drove past us later'."

Alan Shadbolt thinks it was the same visit when, as a pupil of St Marks Hall school, he was assigned a rather important role.

"I remember being part of the guard of honour at the main entrance of the school," he said. "When the Royal party had passed us we all had to go to the main hall at the east wing to be another guard of honour."

"We did not fool Prince Phillip, though, because he said 'You must be the naughty ones because I saw you at the other entrance!'"

Ron Simmons, of Mark Hall Moors, worked as a laboratory assistant at the Revertex factory in the town's industrial area. He recalls when the Duke visited the town back in 1952.

Mr Simmons, who moved to Harlow in early February of that year, said he was made to tidy himself up before the arrival.

"I remember my boss shouting 'You haven't had a haircut'," he said. "Someone from the company ended up trimming me down with a razor! I was only about 20 at the time and not the neatest of people."

He added: "I ended up giving the Duke a demonstration of natural rubber latex glove dipping. He was a very pleasant man and seemed impressed."

● A newsreel about the Duke's visit to Harlow and the Revertex factory in 1952 can be viewed at www.britishpathe.com/record.php?id=30645.

Those were the days . . .

WITH the future of some of Harlow's most popular services in the news this week, Nostalgia would like to feature your pictures and memories from happier times.

Do you remember days spent splashing around at one of the six of Harlow's newly opened paddling pools? Did you spend hours digging out some of the secrets of the natural world at Parndon Wood Nature Reserve? Can you remember some of the first animals to delight at Pets' Corner or the first stars to take to the stage at the Playhouse? Can you even recall the first school trip to inspect the displays at Harlow Museum?

Send in your photos and memories to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Britannia rules the rail tracks

RAIL enthusiasts who missed the Oliver Cromwell locomotive as it steamed through Harlow last week can see another magnificent engine pass through the town soon.

Nostalgia has been advised by train buff Andy Bishop that the very first Britannia class is due through both Harlow and Sawbridgeworth next Thursday (July 14). "Over the past few years these engines have been painstakingly restored to working order and are back on the mainlines of Britain," he explained. "A mere 58 years after the 1953 Burnt Mill photograph which accompanied your article about the Lord Hurcomb, we are indeed fortunate that not one but two Britannia class engines which survived the cutters torch are passing through the old Burnt Mill station – now the site of Harlow Town station – once again."

25 years ago

➡ A Harlow man has been viciously attacked with a saw while arguing with a van driver over a vehicle's screeching brakes. The man had to receive treatment at Princess Alexandra Hospital for a severe laceration to his neck.

➡ Thieves have left a couple heartbroken after stealing most of their canaries from an aviary. The pair say they are so upset they cannot bring themselves to go into the aviary where only two of the original 22 birds remain. The thieves managed to carry out their crime without waking the family's Jack Russell terrier, who was sleeping in a bedroom above the birds.

➡ Would-be swimmers had to stay on dry land last week when a powercut closed Harlow pool for more than four hours after workmen sliced through the mains supply. The pool manager said he was unable to estimate how much money was lost because of the incident.

Police to tackle TOWIE stars in charity match

A TEAM of showbiz stars will put their soccer skills to the test when they take on Harlow police officers in a football fundraiser later this month.

Lining up for the celebrities will be Kirk Norcross and Mark Wright from hit show The Only Way Is Essex, X Factor eccentric Wagner, Blazin' Squad rapper Kenzie, Britain's Got Talent finalists Stavros Flatley and former actor Frankie Fitzgerald, who played Nick Cotton's son Ashley in the BBC soap EastEnders.

Proceeds from the match, the second to be organised by Harlow Police FC, will be donated to the Princess Alexandra Hospital neonatal intensive care unit appeal.

The first game was held last year and raised £1,000 for the Child Victims of Crime and Variety Club children's charities.

Harlow Police FC manager Dave Brown said: "The celebrities, police and residents all enjoyed the day so much we decided to have a re-match this year to support our local hospital's neo-natal unit.

"I would like to thank everyone who is giving up their time to support this event and also to Harlow Water Gardens for sponsoring us this year."

Debbie Twist, head of children's services at PAH added: "The funds will go towards the purchase of new equipment for the unit which will benefit many babies in the area.

"We are extremely grateful for their support and the time which the stars have kindly given up to take part in the event."

The match takes place at Harlow Town FC's stadium in Sunday, July 24. Gates will open at 2pm, with kick-off at 3pm. Admission is £2 (£1 for under-16s).

Judge labels peer a 'benefits cheat'

THE former leader of Essex County Council has been jailed for nine months for fiddling his Parliamentary expenses.

Conservative peer Lord Hanningfield, who was charged under his real name of Paul White, was sentenced at Maidstone Crown Court on Friday after being found guilty of six counts of false accounting following an eight-day trial at Chelmsford Crown Court in May.

A few hours before he was sentenced it was confirmed that White, who denied all the charges, planned to appeal against his conviction.

The court was told the former pig farmer claimed £13,379 in Parliamentary expenses for overnight stays in London when he was not in the capital. This included one occasion in February 2008 when he was on a plane to India.

He also fraudulently claimed £382 in train fares and £147 in mileage by doubling the seven-mile distance from his home at West Hanningfield near Chelmsford to the local railway station.

White had told the jury he treated

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

the expenses for staying overnight in London as an allowance for living outside the capital and spent just a minute a month completing his claim forms.

He also claimed that most other peers treated the House of Lords as a club, turning up for only 10 minutes to claim their daily allowance.

He insisted his Parliamentary duties left him thousands of pounds out of pocket and said he averaged out his claims to recoup some of the money he spent.

Passing sentence, Mr Justice Saunders said White would be partly remembered as a "benefits cheat".

He said: "While there were ambiguities in the peers' expenses schemes which have resulted in its revision, it was clear from the terms of the scheme, as well as according with common sense, that a peer could not claim an overnight allowance to cover the expense of staying the night in London when he did not stay in London but went home.

"It was perfectly clear from the terms of the scheme, as well as according with common sense, that a peer could not claim for travelling expenses that he did not incur."

This week Tony Durcan, who serves as a Labour county councillor representing the Harlow West division, said the disgraced peer was "never a friend of Harlow".

"The people of Essex expect and demand the highest standards from those who represent them and it right that all politicians don't forget that we are all accountable," he said.

"If we fall below that standard like Lord Hanningfield we deserve not to hold any office ever again. He leaves behind a bad legacy."

Essex County Council said this week White would not be disqualified until the outcome of his appeal and a by-election could not take place until his disqualification had taken effect.

"In the meantime we are continuing to co-operate with the police over the ongoing investigation and it would not be appropriate for us to comment until that is complete," said a spokeswoman.

Town Park resounds to songs of praise

MORE than 600 worshippers enjoyed an afternoon of songs and prayer in the sunshine at Heart 4 Harlow's annual Praise in the Park event at the weekend.

They gathered at the bandstand in Harlow Town Park for live music, Bible sketches, a mini-football tournament, activity tents and a bouncy castle.

The fun day was organised by the Heart 4 Harlow group which promote events at which the church and community work together.

Organiser Reverend Robert

Findlay said: "Praise in the Park went really well and it was good to see so many faces.

"We are already planning the next event and hope it will be bigger and better than ever."

Mr Findlay also encouraged residents to get involved with the group's Heart For Harlow campaign to share what they love about the town.

Specially-produced posters and instructions on how to take part are available now at the Heart 4 Harlow shop in the Harvey Centre and the Star offices in West Gate.

We are so lucky our son survived

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW mum who has been raising funds for Meningitis UK since she almost lost her baby son to the illness is closing in on her £5,000 target.

Sian Blow (26), of Halling Hill, has with the help of family and friends already raised £4,000 for the national charity since her son Blake contracted meningococcal septicaemia almost five years ago.

She hopes to collect even more when she takes part in the British 10K London Run this weekend.

"No-one has a story like mine," said Sian. "I read online all these heartbreaking stories about those who lost their children through meningitis or whose children have been left brain damaged or without limbs and appreciate how lucky we were with Blake."

It was one evening towards the end of 2006 when Sian noticed her seven-week-old wasn't his usual self. "He was a perfect baby and then one night he wouldn't stop crying," she said.

"I knew something wasn't right but it's so hard to tell with a baby. I was advised by NHS Direct to take him to the doctors in the morning but I ended up staying up with him all night."

The next day doctors advised Sian and husband Gareth they thought Blake was suffering from an infection and told them to take him to hospital. But medics there quickly realised the situation was a lot more serious.

"They took one look at Blake and rushed him to the resuscitation and trauma room for a lumbar puncture," said Sian. "Eventually we were told he had meningitis and it was critical."

"Then began the rollercoaster. Day five was the worst; we thought we had lost him and even had a priest perform a baptism. Then suddenly he started to pick up and 10 days later he was well enough to go home. It was incredible."

Amazingly, all tests since Blake's illness have shown no long-term damage and the four-year-old, who now has a two-and-a-half year old sister, Honey, is set to start St Albans School in September.

"I never expected to return home with him and yet here we are almost five years later with Blake back to his perfect, happy self," said Sian.

"I just hope that my story, and the money raised, can help bring some hope to other families."

At last Ismet is happy – he seems like a different boy

AS DeafBlind Awareness Week draws to a close, a Harlow mum has highlighted her son's struggle – and progress – since receiving support from a charity specialising in care for those affected by the condition.

When Ismet Gorur was born deaf, his parents knew the road ahead was going to be hard, but when the youngster's vision began to deteriorate at the age of four after he developed cataracts, the family realised life was going to be a series of battles.

"We have had a lot of difficult times in the past," said mum Aynur, of Upper Stoney Field. "The world is a very scary place for someone like Ismet. He was always very clingy and hated to be left alone, even for a minute."

"What's more, Ismet wasn't able to communicate what he wanted to us and that frustrated him."

But last year Ismet started receiving the support from deafblind charity Sense, which assigned multi-sensory impairment consultant Alex Oram to work with the 11-year-old and his teachers at Harlow Fields School. Aynur has been astounded by her son's progress.

"For the first time he has confidence and is able to express himself so that we understand," she said. "To finally be able to do things for himself, play on his own and communicate so that we understand makes him very happy. He seems like a different boy."

Aynur added: "So much of what we know about the world comes from our sight and hearing, so people who are both deaf and blind face many barriers."

"But with the right support tailored to their individual needs, deafblind children like Ismet can achieve so much."

For more information about Sense, visit www.sense.org.uk.

Support group's offer to people with Parkinson's

PEOPLE affected by Parkinson's disease are being encouraged to join a Harlow support group.

The group, which is run by the town's branch of Parkinson's UK from the David Livingstone Club in Potter Street, provides an opportunity to meet others going through similar situations while receiving extra support.

"Nobody needs to face Parkinson's alone," said branch secretary Corinne Hall.

"Come along to our active group and meet people who understand and care. Many who have years of experience looking after someone with Parkinson's or live with the condition themselves."

"We also have plenty of information available and know of Parkinson's nurses in the area who can help with all aspects of support whilst living with the disease."

The group meet every Wednesday from 11am-3pm. For more information, call 07982 094194.

The branch has expressed thanks to customers of Tesco at Church Langley who recently helped to raise £902 for the charity.

Rotarians' treat for youngsters

ROTARIANS from Harlow's two clubs joined forces with other groups in the region to treat 130 children with special needs to a day out at Paradise Wildlife Park.

The Harlow and Harlow Tye clubs, along with Bishop's Stortford, Epping Forest and Loughton, donated more than £2,500 to give the youngsters from four local schools a kids day out.

Volunteers from each of the clubs also joined the children on their trip to help assist carers and teachers.

John Pritchard, communications officer for the Harlow Tye club, said: "The kids day out is something that all Rotary clubs nationwide like to do every year. "It is a fantastic day and the children always seem to really enjoy it, as do the members that go along to assist."

He added: "It brings a lot of happiness and is something I expect we'll continue to do for many years to come."

Lottery results

THE winner of the £1,000 first prize in the weekly St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, July 1 is ticket holder 104521, who lives in Harlow.

The second prize of £100 goes to the holder of ticket number 597796, who lives in Epping.

Couple's garden is 'paradise' for Alan

A COUPLE whose garden is their pride and joy are set to appear on primetime TV after their hard work won the praise of television gardening guru Alan Titchmarsh.

Described as a "little piece of paradise" by the former Gardener's World presenter, Keith and Verna Naunton's

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

garden will be featured on a forthcoming episode of the ITV show Love Your Garden in early autumn.

Alan was accompanied by a camera crew when he visited the couple at their home in Rundells, Harlow, last week.

He was filmed exploring their lush garden which, despite its diminutive size, is packed with more than 140 shrubs, perennials and bedding plants.

Set on several levels, it also boasts a charming summer house, several water features and relaxing seating areas.

Keith, who also has a nearby allotment, said he was thrilled their garden was chosen to be featured on the show.

"The filming day was an absolutely brilliant experience, one that Verna and I will never forget," he said.

"The whole production team were brilliant but Alan in particular was great.

"He told me that he had selected our garden knowing that it captured the true essence of his new TV programme, saying we had created a little piece of 'paradise' which, naturally, we were very pleased about!"

Gardening enthusiasts looking for inspiration will be able to see the Nauntons' garden for themselves next Saturday (July 16) when the couple open it to the public from 2-5pm as part of the National Gardens Scheme.

Admission is £2.50 and all money raised will be split between charities including Macmillan Cancer Support, Marie Curie Cancer Care and Help The Hospices.

RSPCA start probe into dog attack horror in council flat

ANIMAL welfare officers are investigating an incident at a council flat in Harlow which resulted in three dogs being put down.

Police were called to the property on the Rushes Mead estate by neighbours who reported hearing "unbearable" sounds coming from the property.

When they arrived they found a puppy and three dogs, one of which had sustained serious injuries and had to be put down.

The other two adult dogs have since been destroyed.

One neighbour, who did not want to be named, said that when they went to investigate the noise they saw two of the adult dogs attacking the third.

"The dog being attacked was literally screaming in pain so we tried desperately to separate the animals by banging on the door and even used a broomstick through the letter box to distract them."

The incident is currently under investigation by the RSPCA. Police said a man who lived at the flat has been charged with assaulting a police officer.

A Harlow Council spokesman said that regulations regarding the keeping of domestic animals by tenants were expected to be tightened later in the year.

BUSY BEES Children at the nursery in Green Street, Harlow, had a flaming good time when they got the chance to sit in a working fire engine.

As part of national Child Safety Week run by the Child Accident Prevention Trust, a crew from the town's station in Fourth Avenue visited the nursery to warn about the dangers of fire.

During the week the children were also taught about road safety and received a visit from a member of the Dogs Trust to learn about safely handling the animals.

Nursery catering manager Vicki Clift said: "The children really enjoyed it and all loved getting a turn in the fire engine."

"We try to do different activities each year for child safety week and ultimately it is about teaching children awareness of things that could pose a danger to them."

STEWARDS Welsh rugby union legend J.J. Williams and his son Rhys, a European junior champion in the 400m hurdles, encouraged students to set their sights high when they dropped in at the Parnall Road school. During their visit arranged as part of the school's motivational day, they spoke about the benefits of hard work, enthusiasm and dedication before joining the youngsters for photos.

The pupils were also put through their paces with a sequence of challenging exercises by England rugby internationals Michael J Stanley (England U16s, U18s, and U20s) and Emily Scott (U20s and senior team). Gareth Hughes, assistant head of PE, said: "I am delighted with the success of the day and hope it will now become an annual fixture in the school calendar as it has been an inspirational day for pupils and staff alike."

To coincide with National Sports Week and to raise money for the neonatal intensive care unit at Addenbrookes Hospital in Cambridge, youngsters were allowed to wear their favourite sports gear in return for a £1 donation.

They also learned about the work of the Rosie Ward at the hospital, which supported the family of two pupils during difficult times.

"We were very happy to raise £146 for Addenbrookes NICU on the day," said headteacher Angela Callaway.

"The children always enjoy a non-uniform day so it is particularly nice to have one that supports a personal cause."

She added: "It was lovely to see all the national kits of students whose families are from overseas and it turned into a bit of a learning experience for us all."

University vice-chancellor renews his old school ties

THE vice chancellor of Leeds University has paid his old school in Harlow a visit ahead of preparations for its 50th anniversary celebrations next year.

Professor Michael Arthur spent a day at Burnt Mill School, in First Avenue, giving presentations and helping to run workshops with other education representatives about life at university and the importance of having a strong academic foundation for the future.

He also took time to tour the school and later reminisced about the "old days" in a talk to Year Nine and Year Ten students.

Headteacher Helena Mills said: "Professor Arthur gave our students some fantastic advice about achieving their aspirations and going to university."

"He was also able to talk to me about how he has transformed Leeds into one of the top universities in the world, on a par with Oxford and Cambridge, by focusing on the quality of teaching and learning.

"We share that focus and we share the highest of expectations for our students."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who attended the event, added: "I am backing the links between Burnt Mill and Leeds University because we need to give our young people skills and opportunities for the future."

● Last week the Star reported that Burnt Mill School was closed on Thursday because of the teachers' strike. The school has since clarified it was closed because of a rescheduled teacher training day.

Fitness and fun at gym club open day

HARLOW Gymnastic Club is giving Star readers the chance to take part in a free taster session at its open day next Saturday (July 16).

"We hear all too often about the problem of childhood obesity," said club manager Peter James.

"Getting involved in gymnastics at an early age is a great way for young people to keep fit, meet new friends and socialise."

The afternoon event will feature gym displays by club members, a cheerleading demonstration, stalls, a bouncy castle and live music from the Harlow Steel Band.

The open day takes place Sumners Leisure Centre, in Broadley Road, from noon to 4pm. For more information, email harlowgymnastics@hotmail.co.uk.

To qualify for the free trial session, cut out this article and take it along to the open day.

Crematorium firm plans £3m refurb

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE private firm appointed to run Harlow's council-owned cemetery and crematorium has pledged to invest £3m into modernising the ageing facility.

New operator Westerleigh officially took over the management of Parndon Wood Cemetery and Crematorium on Friday on a 25-year lease.

And it has wasted no time in unveiling plans for a raft of phased improvements designed to ensure the service is "fit for the future".

The proposals – which will be finalised after consultation with residents and local funeral directors – include fitting a new glass roof to the main entrance, building additional car park facilities, creating a new hedged garden to the side of the chapel and extending the crematory to accommodate two new cremators and emissions control equipment.

Westerleigh, which runs crematoriums in Basildon, Hainault and other locations across the UK, also wants to build a floral tribute canopy with widened roadways for funeral cars and revamp the memorial garden with a series of water features.

The service opening hours and customer access will be extended with a longer staff presence on site, while the firm will also be responsible for keeping the area secure and well-maintained.

Westerleigh insists that fees will not be increased this year and plans to offer two cut-price slots each morning at a reduced cost of £450 – £75 lower than the standard fee.

Managing director Richard Evans told the Star: "We are delighted to have this opportunity to use our experience and expertise to make a substantive improvement to the crematorium and cemetery service at Parndon Wood."

"We have successfully overseen similar transfers in the past and know that we will make a big difference to the level of care we can offer to the bereaved families of Harlow."

Tony Hall, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for the environment, said the part-privatisation deal would secure the long-term future of the facility.

"This is a great deal for Harlow which will bring much needed investment for this important facility," he added.

"It paves the way for a host of major improvements which the council simply cannot afford and illustrates our commitment to protect and improve important Harlow facilities."

But Labour group leader Mark Wilkinson said he feared some residents would eventually be "priced out" of using the service.

"It may not happen in the first few months or even the first year, but fees are certain to rocket eventually," he said.

"This firm isn't going to pump £3m into the crematorium without expecting to make a substantial profit over the term of its lease."

"I worry that many people living in the town will be priced out of using a service that has always been, and should have remained, council-run."

Music group performers show talents on stage

A PERFORMING arts group for people with learning difficulties and residents of the St Elizabeth's Centre at Perry Green wowed audiences with their performances in a show. The Musical Performance Group staged a production of The Old Bull and Bush at Northbrooks House in Northbrooks, Harlow.

Care assistant Belinda Beaute said: "Every year we put on a show and everyone always really looks forward to it. "It is ever so nice to see all our members, even those with more severe disabilities, up on the stage enjoying themselves. "Everybody did a fantastic job and we are all very proud of them."

DJ admits trying to bed girl of 15

A MAN who checked into hotels with a 15-year-old girl for "sexual activity" has been spared a jail sentence.

Instead, part-time DJ David Sampson (49), of The Readings, Harlow, was given a three-year community order and told he must attend a sex offenders programme.

Passing sentence at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday, judge Rodger Hayward-Smith said: "This is exceptional and very lenient but this girl appears to have been very manipulative and even today sent a message saying she hopes you don't go to prison."

The court heard that although the girl complained to police about Sampson, she later refused to co-operate with the inquiry

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

and pursued Sampson with Facebook messages and texts. She even attempted to book him as a DJ through an agency.

Prosecutor Richard Scott told the court Sampson had twice taken the girl to a hotel in Suffolk and once to a Travelodge in Cambridgeshire.

"He checked in as an adult with a child to avoid suspicion," said Mr Scott. "After the first time there was a degree of coercion by the girl to maintain the relationship by threatening to go to the police."

"He sent her a text declaring his love for her and his intention to buy a flat, both of which were untrue. He didn't love her and had no intention of buying a flat. He said he tried to have intercourse with her but it proved unsuccessful."

The court was told she went to police and told them she had been in a relationship with a 48-year-old man. However, she later refused to be interviewed by officers, although Sampson had made "full admissions" when he was questioned.

Nicola May, representing Sampson who admitted three offences of sexual activity with a child, said the offences happened at a time when the defendant was vulnerable after his wife having left him.

The judge commented that Sampson would not have been prosecuted had he not owned up to the offences.

Law governing tenants' rent deposits

TENANTS living in private rented property may not be aware that there is legal provision to protect their rental agreements.

As part of the Housing Act 2004, Rent Deposit Schemes – which started in April 2007 – ensure that any landlord who takes a shorthold tenancy must ensure that the deposit is held in an approved tenancy deposit scheme.

These provisions, known as the Custodial and Insurance schemes, are designed to protect the deposit money itself and to assist in resolving any disputes that may arise regarding the deposit when a tenancy ends.

The two schemes differ in that if your rent deposit is paid into a Custodial scheme, you will receive some interest on the deposit. If your deposit is paid into an Insurance-based scheme, you will not receive any interest on that deposit.

Tenants must be aware that, within 14 days of receiving a rent deposit, a landlord must give them information about which of the two schemes is being used to protect the rent deposits.

Some landlords and estate agents are failing to comply with the law by

Information from Harlow Advice Centre

HARLOW Welfare Rights & Advice provides specialist advice and tribunal and court representation on benefit, housing, employment and debt matters. Contact the service on (01279) 446622 or by calling in to the Advice Centre at 2 East Gate, The High, Harlow, CM20 1ND between 10am and 1.30pm from Monday to Friday. describing money paid to them as "administration fees".

Tenants need to know that rent deposit money is defined as a sum of money paid to a landlord or an agent as security for the performance of your duties [tenant] under the tenancy agreement or the discharge of any liability arising from the tenancy.

At the end of your tenancy you are entitled to receive back your rent deposit unless the landlord can show they have lost out financially because of your actions such as overdue rent or damage to the property.

If you rent from a private landlord and they fail to comply with any of the rulings of the Rent Deposit Schemes, you can make an application to a county court for sanction against the landlord or the agent.

The county court has the power to award you compensation.

Any landlord who fails to comply with the rent deposit scheme is prohibited from serving a section 21 notice to quit.

Jet pack is a real blast!

A WACKY invention that lets people fly through the air like their favourite superhero is proving a big hit with thrill seekers.

With the ability to blast users up to 28ft above any sea or lake, the James Bond-style Jetlev R200 jet pack is now available for hire in US holiday resorts . . . and could soon be heading for Europe.

The device is powered by water pumped to it through a 30ft flexible hose attached to a motor pump in a 10ft boat.

The jet pack then delivers a powerful thrust of water to directional nozzles which are controlled by the wearer, allowing them complete freedom of movement.

The jet pack's engine has a 100-litre fuel tank which lets the user cruise for three hours or blast at full speed for two hours.

The company behind the product claims the controls are so easy to use that most new users can master them in a matter of minutes.

During training, students are given a safety briefing and fitted with a helmet and lifejacket before being harnessed to the jet pack.

The first time they are on the water they are 'flown' by an instructor using a remote control but once they learn how to steer the pack they can take over.

But the fun doesn't come cheap - it currently costs around £150 for a half-hour flight or a whopping £60,000 to buy the jet-pack outright!

Former addicts join the 'recovery relay'

FORMER drug and alcohol users living in Harlow were among those who have cycled and run the length and breadth of the county to help raise awareness about rehabilitation services as part of Recovery Month 2011.

More than 50 participants – including relatives, friends and staff working in rehabilitation services – took part in the Great Recovery Relay Challenge which passed through Old Harlow. The event was organised by Essex Young People's Drug and Alcohol Service.

As well as raising awareness about the problems of alcohol and drug misuse, it also celebrated the achievements of those who have recovered from their addictions.

Mark Munday, deputy service manager for EYPDAS, said: "It was great to see service users – both young people and adults – staff from drug and alcohol services and commissioners encouraging and supporting each other to complete the cycling and running challenges across Essex."

"There was a great turnout and the event was a reflection of how substance misuse services work together in partnership across Essex to support and encourage service users on the road to recovery."

The week begins with a stunning eclipse in Cancer. This can intensify your feelings around the home, how you live with and how, not just now, but for some time. You may decide to move or improve. Call now for your financial forecast in full...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
Major new starts beckon for you Cancer, or you can re-energize any existing projects that are important. Yet someone close to you may prefer the status quo is maintained, and put obstacles in your path. This could lead to some tensions in a personal relationship, and you may decide to start again. A surprise windfall can delight. Call your prediction line for your love scope in full...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

Star names to grace the Playhouse stage

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

A BRITISH rock 'n' roll legend, a former Tory MP and a TV magician – just three of the diverse acts soon to be treading the boards at Harlow Playhouse as the theatre prepares for its new season.

Marty Wilde and the Wildcats, Gyles Brandreth and Paul Daniels will all be appearing at the town centre venue in the coming months, along with a glittering array of top comedians, musicians, dance troupes and drama groups.

Kicking off on September 10 with a special stage adaptation of hit CBeebies' show Numberjacks, the autumn programme continues the following Friday (September 16) when award-winning theatre company Global stage a hotly-anticipated production of Philip King's brilliant farce See How They Run.

With the Playhouse once again offering its 3-for-2 drama ticket, theatregoers have plenty of other reasons to be cheerful, with Peter Shaffer's haunting psychological thriller Equus coming to the theatre on October 13, John Steinbeck's timeless Of Mice And Men on November 9 and the Eric Chappell-penned comedy Passing Strangers on November 19.

For more laughs, audiences can enjoy the wit and wordplay of Giles Brandreth on October 14 and rib-tickling sets from hellraising loon Jerry Sadowitz on October 30, TV sketch show superstar Stephen K Amos on November 4 and veteran stand-up Jeremy Hardy on November 18.

Next season's music programme starts from Year Zero on September 24 with a bile-spitting tribute to punk legends the Sex Pistols and also features gigs from UK rock 'n' roll legends Marty Wilde (September 30) and Joe Brown (November 8), punctuated by the tongue-in-cheek pop parodies of The Barron Knights on October 9 and the enchanting sounds of the Osiligi Maasai Warriors on October 12.

Other highlights include legendary TV magician Paul Daniels' hair-raising new show on September 21, Rare Productions' dazzling musical adaptation of Oliver! on October 27-29, spectacular pantomime Peter Pan throughout December and a special charity gala performance celebrating the theatre's 40th anniversary on November 6.

Playhouse manager Scott Ramsey told the Star: "We've got a great line-up for the season ahead, with a range of entertainment for everyone.

"There's a wonderful selection of dramas, great comedy with some of the most talented names on the circuit and plenty of fabulous live music to suit all tastes, much of it performed by the original artists themselves.

"Families also have lots to look forward to throughout the season, culminating in our spectacular pantomime Peter Pan, with lots of music and magic, flying and fun."

Chorus chooses Elgar for its concert season finale

▲ CATHERINE KING

HARLOW Chorus will be raising the roof at Chelmsford Cathedral on Saturday with a rousing performance of Edward Elgar's The Dream of Gerontius to round off another successful concert season.

The choir will be joining forces with the East London Chorus to perform the composer's masterpiece, which was inspired by a poem written by Cardinal John Henry Newman in 1865. Tracing the journey of a man through the final hours of life and into the spiritual realm of angels and demons, the poem was set to music by Elgar for the Birmingham Festival and the magnificent oratorio has endured as a favourite of performers and audiences alike for the past 110 years.

The choirs will be joined by soloists Catherine King (mezzo-soprano), Mark Wilde (tenor) and Edward Grint (baritone) and conducted by Harlow Chorus musical director Alexander Chaplin. Music will be provided by the celebrated Salomon Orchestra.

Choir spokeswoman Pat Hodgson said: "This is a really big show for us and we're looking forward to working with the East London Chorus. "Everyone involved has put a tremendous amount of time and effort into the concert which promises to be a wonderful end to our current season."

The show takes place at Chelmsford Cathedral on Saturday at 7.30pm. Tickets are priced between £14-£18 (£10 concessions / £5 under-16s) and can be booked by calling the Harlow Chorus box office on (01277) 362440 or online at www.harlowchorus.ticketsource.co.uk.

Hanks hoping to get his hands on a new Mercedes

certificate 12A, 1h38m

INDIVIDUALLY, Tom Hanks and Julia Roberts are two of the most successful actors of their generation.

Hanks is currently the highest-grossing actor in the world while Roberts was reportedly the first actress to command a fee of $20m dollars for a role.

Both have won Academy Awards for their performances and both are beloved by audiences for the ability to appear down-to-earth and accessible despite the trappings afforded by Hollywood.

Now the two stars join forces in Larry Crowne, a recession-themed romantic comedy that proves it's never too late to embrace life.

Larry Crowne (Hanks) used to be in the Navy until he secured a job as a team leader at a superstore where the staff adore him for his cheerful, laidback approach. Then the financial bubble bursts and Larry faces the terrifying prospect of redundancy like so many of his friends and neighbours.

Concerned about how he will pay the mortgage, Larry decides to broaden his skills by attending college and he enrolls for a public speaking class.

Stumbling into the classroom, he meets feisty teacher Mercedes Tainot (Roberts), who has lost her passion for teaching and is stuck in an unfulfilling marriage to her husband Dean (Bryan Cranston).

Larry is smitten and as he gains the confidence to express himself in public, the former Navy man also gains the courage to tell Mercedes how he feels and to ask her to join him on his haphazard journey of self-discovery.

No holds barred in the battle of the 'bots

certificate 12A, 2h34m

WHEN a Cybertronian spacecraft crashes on the Moon in the early 1960s, the crew of Apollo 11 retrieves an important Autobot artefact and return it to Earth, unaware that the device will spark a titanic war with the Decepticons more than 40 years later. Sam Witwicky ( Shia LaBeouf ) and his girlfriend Carly ( Rosie Huntington-Whiteley ) are caught in the eye of the storm as Optimus Prime ( voiced by Peter Cullen ), Bumblebee and the other Autobots protect the humans and field commanders Major Lennox ( Josh Duhamel ) and Master Sergeant Epps ( Tyrese Gibson ) spearhead the final stand against the Decepticons.

>>still on screen

Bridesmaids Annie (Kristen Wiig) used to own her own bakery but has now fallen on hard times and works as a jewellery saleswoman. Best friend Lillian (Maya Rudolph) reveals she is getting married and asks a clearly delighted Annie to be maid of honour. Without two dimes to rub together, organising a bridal shower to remember will be tricky for Annie, especially as one of the bridesmaids is socialite wife Helen (Rose Byrne), who splashes the cash as if it is going out of fashion. Fellow bridesmaids Megan (Melissa McCarthy), Becca (Ellie Kemper) and Rita (Wendi McLendon-Covey) witness the fallout as Annie and Helen vie for Lillian's affections.

Kung Fu Panda 2 (3D & 2D) Overweight panda Po (voiced by Jack Black) is living his dream as an all-action bear, honing his skills under the watchful eye of mentor Shifu (Dustin Hoffman). However, he is haunted by fragmented memories which eventually reveal how his father came to be a goose called Mr Ping (James Wong). It transpires that an evil peacock Lord Shen (Gary Oldman) is the cause of Po's deep emotional wounds. Spurred on by a dire warning about pandas from an elderly soothsayer, Shen and his army of snarling wolves are on a collision course with Po. Thankfully, Po can always rely on the Furious Five - Crane (David Cross), Mantis (Seth Rogen), Monkey (Jackie Chan), Tigress (Angellina Jolie) and Viper (Lucy Liu) - to avert disaster.

>>movies for kids

Megamind Megamind (voiced by Will Ferrell) is separated from his alien parents as a child and crash-lands on Earth where he grows up in the Metro Prison For The Criminally Gifted. But when he destroys his arch rival Metro Man, allowing him and his loyal henchman Minion (David Cross), to take charge of Metro City he soon finds life is empty with no-one to fight.

Yogi Bear Yogi Bear (voiced by Dan Aykroyd) and pal Boo Boo (Justin Timberlake) live in a cave in Jellystone Park from where they mastermind the ingenious thefts of food using spring-loaded picnic tables. But Mayor Brown (Andrew Daly) intends to sell off the park and auction logging rights to the highest bidder. The only way to raise the money and save Jellystone is to throw a 100th anniversary party.

Alpha and Omega Two young wolves at opposite ends of their pack's social order are thrown together into a foreign land and need each other to return home, but love complicates everything.

That's magic - it's a Potter marathon

Tracey Waples
Property Editor

I WAS chatting to a local estate agent this week and I asked him about properties with annexes.

Whether it's for the teenager craving a little independence, extra space for granny or somewhere to house the au pair, annexes seem to be a 'must have' for many when buying a new family home these days.

The agent told me that an annexe can come into its own at all stages of family life. As the proportion of the population over 80 is set to grow quickly in coming years, the advantages of having a granny flat or annexe are set to increase.

And as younger families need homes which are perhaps not affordable without the help of a relative who in turn wants to be independent yet within close proximity of their family, an annexe could be the answer.

If you're struggling to find the right house with an annexe for sale or the current economic situation is making you reluctant to move, then how about converting an existing outbuilding into self-contained accommodation? Or if you have the space, could you build something new in the garden?

"If properly constructed in accordance with building regulations and planning permission, an annexe will almost certainly add a little value," says a spokesman for the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors. "Demand for annexes is growing as our population ages and the best examples effectively become a flat within a house suitable for children or even au pairs if the house is later bought by someone with different needs."

Adding space to your property will almost certainly add value and the best place to find out which improvement projects will have the greatest impact – be it a loft conversion, granny annex or increased living space – is your local estate agents.

They can be extremely useful starting point as they have the knowledge of ceiling prices and buyers' tastes as they relate to your property.

New coupe is One for the road

By Motoring Correspondent

THE 1 Series M Coupe has been an eagerly awaited addition to BMW's M fleet for some time. That it's a good bit cheaper than a current M3 will be a bonus for many. It's ironic, then, to learn that mechanically the 1M shares a quite a bit with the M3.

BMW's 1 Series Coupe has always been pitched as the performance poster boy of the range, but the 1M takes this a step further. It might share the 3.0-litre, six-cylinder petrol motor of the 135i but in 1M form the twin-turbo unit boasts a healthy 340 horsepower and an equally useful 369lb/ft of torque. And the M3 connection? In reality the 1M is an M3 in 1 Series clothes, albeit ones that have been stretched over a shortened and modified M3 chassis. This is partly the reason for the car's muscular stance. The wider track is all M3 which does wonders for its ride and handling balance.

Forget any notions of this car being little more than a shrink-wrapped M3, though. BMW has sought to carve out a nice little niche for the 1M.

And with rivals such as Porsche's Cayman and Audi's RS3 mentioned in the same

FACTfile
BMW 1 Series M Coupe	PRICE from £40,020 on the road
Engine:	3.0-litre petrol unit developing 340bhp
Transmission:	6-speed manual as standard, driving rear wheels
Performance:	Top speed 155mph / 0-62mph in 4.9 secs
Economy:	29.4mpg
CO<sub>2</sub> Rating:	224g/km breath, this is no cut and shut job. It's also no slouch, with on-paper performance figures that almost match its bigger brother. For every rose tinted notion that BMW's original E30 M3 was – and still is – a driving sensation, there's always a counter argument that in today's world it's slow and needs revving hard to uncork its modest potential. The later E36 isn't far behind, but for a new generation of financially independent and informed enthusiasts the 1M could well be the modern interpretation they're looking for.

The 1M is compact but unlike its fondly remembered predecessors isn't lacking when it comes to safety kit (airbags, ABS, ESP) and creature comforts (climate control, leather, cruise control, decent audio).

With all the best bits from the current M3 under you and a massaged in-line turbo six-cylinder motor up front, the 1M delivers a sparkling performance that anyone with a fondness for old-school rear-drive fun will love. It even comes with BMW's trick M differential lock to enhance grip and stability when pressing on.

The car's weighty but direct steering never fails to communicate the road conditions. The stubby manual gear lever slots securely into the ratio of your choosing no matter how fast you shift.

And – this is the best bit – despite the car's short wheelbase and wide track, the ride is more forgiving than you could hope for even when accounting for the car's super low profile tyres wrapped around the M3 Competition model's alloy wheels.

Completing the experience is the 1M's engine which is never short of puffor character. The latter takes the form of a deep-chested rasp that rises to a rich, baritone wail when the six-pot motor is fully extended.

On a practical note, you'll struggle to detect the forced induction assistance, with only the slightest hint of turbo whistle audible at low speeds. Wind up the motor and the result is an elastic response, encouraging you to hold a gear for as long as is humanly possible.

Overtaking potential is present in spades and thanks to the engine's near bottomless pit of torque you rarely have to drop a gear to make a move.

Factor in the car's impressive agility and composure over even the roughest of Tarmac and the most challenging roads and it's hard not to be impressed.

Grip is in plentiful supply until you turn off the traction system and then it's a whole new ball game. But there's no need to be flying at some crazy speed to enjoy yourself; the car's eagerness to play and the modest power and grip levels allow you to break loose at sensible speeds, not supercar go-to-jail velocities.

The 1M offers drivers a simple combination of an abundance of power, an agile chassis, a composed ride without any electronic interference, a trick differential and a manual gearbox. This modern take on a back-to-basics approach to performance motoring is, sadly, an all too rare one but BMW has hit the jackpot with the right blend of mechanical components and emotional experiences.

There's nothing basic about the 1M but it will serve up simple thrills for keen, experienced drivers all day long. And it doesn't get any better than that.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Further to the notice published on 23 June 2011 notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984

Effect of the order: To temporarily close that length of footbridge on Footpath No.69 in the District of Harlow, situated from the junction of Footpath No.69 and Footpaths No.119 and 71 heading south across the River Stort (Navigation) for an approximate distance of 21 metres.

The closure is now scheduled to remain in force to 15 July 2011 or where appropriate signs are showing and weather permitting, and is required for the safety of the public and workforce whilst essential structural works are undertaken on the bridge by British Waterways. Alternative route will be from the junction of Footpath No.69 and Footpaths No.119 and 71 west along Footpath No.69 towards Pardon Lock and then south along Byway No.127. Proceed east and then south on Footpath No.129 crossing a footbridge. Next head east along Pardon Mill Lane before joining footpath 70 and vice versa.

The Order came into effect on 25 June 2011 and may continue in force for 6 months, or until the works are finished, whichever is the earlier. Dated: 7 July 2011.

Servo beat off White Admiral to win the title by 24 points.

Servo finished on 153 points against Admiral's 129 points. The Singles Knockout was won by Mick McNally for a record fifth time.

McNally previously won in 2000, 2001, 2005 and 2008.

He beat Steve Salter (Tye Green Whites) 4-1 in the final.

This meant Salter was singles runner-up for the second year in succession.

New young talent emerged in the form of Dan Richards (Crusader), who beat Douglas Thomas (Staple Tye Colts) 3-2 in the final of the U-19s knockout.

During league knockouts and on charity nights, members raised more than £400 with the considerable input of League chairman John Yates.

The money will go to the local Alzheimers and Respite association.

New set-up for relegated Rams

TWO new appointments have been made as Harlow Rugby Club aim to bounce back after being relegated from London division two north east at the end of last season.

Rhys Powell (33) has been made player-coach for the first team, while Shaun Roberts (34) has taken over from Scott Romaine as captain.

The pair will work with Lee Harron (37) who has been reappointed with the new title of head coach. He was previously director of rugby.

Harron will have an overall input into the coaching policy at the Elizabeth Way club. The former first team scrum-half will be devoting a lot of his time to the first XV, working on tactics and selection, with early promotion back to London division two north east as the main target.

Last season Harlow finished bottom and won just three out of 22 league games.

Harron said: "We are fully committed and very excited about the season ahead and its prospects."

"We need to move Harlow back up the League. This is something the club and the town deserves."

He added: "The hard work starts now with a collective effort from all involved to make this happen."

"The structure is in place, it's now down to the players to buy in and get the hard work done in summer training and get us off to a good start in the league campaign."

Powell and Roberts have extensive experience in rugby.

Roberts joined Harlow in 1999 and has previously played for Blackheath in a divi-

Club members will be putting on special displays during the day at Summers Leisure Centre in Broadley Road, Harlow, between noon and 4pm.

The school took six teams to this event in Loughton.

Meanwhile, the Year 6 girls team were fourth overall in the Essex county rounders competition.

They had finished as runner-up in their pool.

Close neighbours Henry Moore were second at this event in Tiptree.

Langley's Year 6 girls A team also triumphed in the Harlow Kwik Cricket tournament last month.

Bauer's season best

Harlow AC member Paul Avontuur guested and threw 8.82m in the shot and 18.44m in the hammer.

Comfortable win puts Town back in top spot

TOP spot was reclaimed by Harlow Town after they gained a hard-fought home victory over Bishop's Stortford III, while leaders Theydon Bois slipped up against Ilford Catholics.

Town lead the table by 11 points after Saturday's games but their skipper Vic Goddard is not complacent.

He said: "It's great to be back at the top of the league with our destiny in our own hands."

"We have a couple of difficult weeks with players missing and we are playing the teams just behind us so our position can still change dramatically."

Bishop's Stortford III 179-9, Harlow Tn 180-5

Harlow Tn won by five wickets

Herts & Essex Cricket League, division one

Goddard won the toss and put Stortford in to bat.

Town started well with the ball, but found early wickets elusive.

Spin bowler Ramya Upadhyay (3-25) claimed the crucial wicket of dangerous looking batsman Adrian Grinonneau (50), which turned the game in Town's favour.

Stortford amassed a modest 179-9 from their 45 overs with Ashley Alderson picking up three wickets.

In reply, the hosts made a good start despite losing Pat Yates for 29.

With wickets in hand, Town always looked favourites to win, but some hard hitting was required as the run rate crept up.

Ashley Alderson (56 not out) delivered with a match-winning innings as Town grabbed the victory with 11 balls to spare.

Goddard added: "We bowled and fielded well, but found batting quite difficult. Our top four are not in the best form, but just need to work through it."

"Ashley Alderson bowled and batted really well and he was easily our man-of-the-match."

Other results (* denotes home team): div two - *Harlow Tn II (161) lost to Stansted (242-8) by 81 runs; div three - Potter Street (191-3) bt Willingale (189-7) by seven wickets; div five - Harlow Tn III (93) lost to Ardeley Walkers (158) by 65 runs.

Brilliant response to first defeat

THE response was perfect as Harlow bounced back from their defeat against Southend-on-Sea to beat promotion rivals Walthamstow at home.

Two sides are set to be promoted from division two of the Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League and Saturday's victory leaves Harlow 43 points ahead of third-placed Leigh-on-Sea.

Bowling first, Harlow's new-look opening partnership of spinner Ahmed Khawaja and seamer Luke Monger ripped through the Walthamstow top order, reducing them to 42-6.

Khawaja took four wickets, including that of the dangerous New Zealander Jamie Glenn for 15 with just the second ball he bowled to him.

Andy McGarry replaced Monger and took two more wickets, leaving Walthamstow reeling on 58-8.

However, the visitors rallied through a 52-run 9th-wicket partnership between Richard Baughan and Greg Harris.

Harlow's quick bowler Haris Afridi removed this pair to leave the visitors all out for 112, a low score on an excellent batting pitch.

Khawaja took 4-21 from 16

overs.

Harlow captain Luke Heskett said: "It was a plan before the game to open up with the spinner to combat the Kiwi and the plan worked perfectly - and to bowl a strong side out so cheaply is fantastic."

Initially Harlow struggled with bat in hand. Monger and Khawaja were bowled by Harris for 2 and 12 respectively, before Rehman Ahmed went for 17 as the hosts slipped to 31-3.

But any doubt about the outcome was removed by an excellent 82-run partnership between Afridi (52 not out) and Nino Calvino (29 not out).

They dominated the bowling and guided Harlow to the target in just 31.5 overs.

Heskett added: "This was the perfect response to defeat last week. The Afridi and Calvino partnership was a great one and they steadied our chase after a difficult start. We face Hutton this Saturday and although they are bottom we won't underestimate them."

Player reaches Singles final on England debut

STEVE Mitchinson was part of the England bowls team that finished third in the British Isles Championships.

The Harlow bowls player was also runner-up in the singles in this competition, held in Edinburgh.

Mitchinson (35), of Challinors, qualified for the singles at Sighthill Bowls Club after winning the England singles title at Worthing last August.

He received a bye into the semi-final where he faced Scotland's Jonathan Ross last Thursday.

Ross edged the opening exchanges on a very quick and tricky green, but the Harlow player - also a member of Harlow's Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club - fought back to go 17-11 ahead.

With just four shots needed for the win Mitchinson produced some great drawing bowls to pick up consecutive twos and the subsequent victory.

Mitchinson faced Richie Leonard (Ireland) in the final.

Leonard found a good line and length and went 16-4 ahead.

Mitchinson then won one end. He said: "I changed tactics and went for short jacks."

Leonard struggled with this tactic and Mitchinson recovered and at one stage led 18-14.

The match got tighter and with the score at 20-16, Mitchinson held a very good two shots again.

Leonard used his last bowl to drive and again he hit the target. He drove the jack onto a back bowl and it shot forwards and sideways and landed near the Ireland player's short bowl which gave him a 21-16 victory.

Mitchinson added: "It was good to make a fight of it, but disappointing after coming so close."

Mitchinson then made his debut for England in a British home nations senior international tournament at the weekend.

In a match against Wales, he was in a rink that included the England team captain, Stuart Airey from Cumbria. England won 30-15 and beat Wales 125-89 overall.

In match against Scotland, Mitchinson was part of a rink that lost 19-11 to a rink which included the legendary bowls player Willie Woods MBE. England lost 111-95 overall.

Mitchinson said: "He was making his 172nd appearance for Scotland and is probably the most decorated player in the history of the sport. It was an honour to play against him."

The rink lost 19-17.

England lost 111-95 overall.

The Harlow bowler was then part of an England rink that drew 19-19 against Ireland.

However, the Irish won 121-113 overall. Scotland won the Championships with Ireland second. England were third.

Markus second in British League

MARKUS Hunt was second on his British League debut at Leigh in Lancashire on Saturday.

Harlow's Hunt (20), representing Southend AC, clocked 47.95 secs in the 400m, just three-hundredths off his personal best (PB).

At Edinburgh, Harlow's Kirsty McIntosh (23) was 5th in the pole vault (3.50m).

Last Wednesday at Mark Hall in the Harlow Schools Champs Year 7 (U-13) girls 800m race, Rosie Poole (Stewards) won in 2:39.

At Watford, Rian McKnight (13), a Burnt Mill School pupil, clocked a PB of 5:04 in the 1,500m. Tyler Bown (Mark Hall) won the U-17 200m, in 23.2s and Sam Benge (17), from Harlow, was 10th (4:20, PB) in the 1,500m.

Addicks ace eyes Prem

Footballer wants success after big-money move

By ALAN SCOTT

DANNY Green is urging his new Charlton Athletic side to 'do a Norwich City' and seal back-to-back promotions to the Premier League.

Green, who lives in Harlow, returned to the club he first joined as a school-boy following a big-money move from Dagenham after a career which has taken in Nottingham Forest, Northampton Town, as well as Harlow's neighbours Bishop's Stortford.

The 22-year-old former St Mark's School student, right, spoke to the Star after the clubs completed a deal for the talented player, who scored the winning goal when Daggers were promoted to League One in the League Two play-off final in 2010.

Green, of Rundells, had no hesitation in rejoining the Addicks. He was a youngster at the club when manager Chris Powell was a first team player nearly seven years ago when the side were in the Premier League.

"Charlton should be a Premier League club. We want to get there straight away. It's a really good club. To get back-to-back promotions we need to get off to a good start and see where we are and go from there really," Green said.

Having been released by Forest after a series of knee injuries, Green was talked into joining Stortford in 2008 when he was on a coaching course with then Blues boss Martin Hayes.

After an impressive season in Conference

South he joined Daggers, managed by former Stortford captain John Still.

He scored 14 goals in his first season as the side won the play-offs. Green also scored 13 goals last term despite the fact that the team were relegated.

"I owe a lot to John Still and Terry Harris. They have added a lot to my game, especially how to defend and the fitness side of the game. My crossing has improved," the winger explained.

It is his scoring ability and assists, plus his dangerous long throws that have specifically attracted Powell. "One of the main things that interest them is because I score quite a few goals. I had 90 games for Dagenham and scored a lot – and made a lot of assists," he said.

Green spoke after a gruelling first day back for pre-season training last Thursday.

But the winger is relishing his return to The Valley and hopes to firstly nail down a first team place. "They have got some good wingers there already. We had our first day of pre-season training today and I'm a little bit knackered but we've got a lot of hard work to do," he said. "The manager said he has picked us for promotion. Charlton shouldn't be a League One club."

Darts professionals a double treat for fans

TOP professional darts players Simon 'The Wizard' Whitlock and Wayne 'Hawaii 501' Mardle doubled up for a great exhibition of arrows fun at the Harlow Greyhound Stadium.

Whitlock who was the runner-up in the PDC World Darts Championship in 2010 and Mardle, who was runner-up in the World Matchplay in 2003, proved popular with up to 130 fans at the Roydon Road venue.

Both played six legs of 501 against enthusiastic amateurs on Saturday.

People got the chance to play against the pair after several names were drawn out from a raffle.

One player even beat Whitlock and Mardle, but rumours that Phil 'The Power' Taylor was in town were strenuously denied! Stadium promotion manager Mick Godderidge said: "It was a really good night. The two guys were fantastic. They mixed with the public really well."

Whitlock will return to Harlow on November 24 with current PDC World Darts Champion Adrian Lewis.

Blow as striker quits Hawks

Brayley, who has also played for Bishop's Stortford, Billericay and Canvey Island, joined Harlow during the second part of last season.

His partnership with Lee Roache played a key role in Harlow climbing the table from February and gaining a play-off spot in Ryman League division one north.

However, Brayley could not commit to the pre-season campaign enough for Hawks boss Danny Chapman and he left on Tuesday.

Chapman explained: "He [Brayley] said he could do two training sessions, but then would miss the rest of July."

"If you are going to be at Harlow Town you have to be 100 per cent committed. There's no bad feeling."

He added: "It would not have been fair to the rest of the squad who have been there week in, week out."

Chapman has plenty of forwards in Roache, Leon Antoine and James Peagram, while former Enfield ace James Bunn has returned to the club. Ex-Southend United youth team striker Rhys Henry is also on trial.

Chapman said: "If we bring anybody in, he has to be better than anybody we have."

The Hawks boss believes experienced forward Bunn could be a viable option in attack. "He's the fittest and slimmest he has ever been. His skill has never been in question but his fitness has," said Chapman.

The manager is still looking for a new goalkeeper.

"We have had people ringing up but they are not of the right calibre," said Chapman.

"Michael Dumoulin is number two. If he impresses me enough in pre-season there is nothing to say that he could not be number one."

Meanwhile, Chapman was unimpressed at the lack of communication when Bishop's Stortford pulled out of their pre-season opener against Harlow on July 23.

Harlow have now fixed up a game against a Braintree Town XI on that date.

Chapman said: "I know clubs' circumstances change, but it would be nice for them to tell us. They did not ring us. We found out through their website, but it does not affect our pre-season."

Harlow will visit Chelmsford City in a friendly on Wednesday August 3.
